

09.11.2020

A NOTIFICATION TO OUR CLIENTS

Shamir Salads Company 2006 Ltd. wishes to inform its clients that upon testing, conducted by the Food Service of Tel-Aviv district, Listeria monocytogenes bacteria were found in a product Dutch Matias style herring fillet in oil of production date 30/09/2020 (expiry date 29/11/2020) and pack size of 565 grams. In light of that, and due to preventive caution issues, the company has decided on recalling the product of the market and, in addition, to include a similar product, created on the same date with its details listed below.

We ask those of our clients who possess the products not to consume them and contact the company on any question. Below are product details:

1

Product name: Dutch Matias style herring fillet in oil, commercial name/brand: Shamir Salads 2006 Ltd.
- P. L. Fish, content: 565 grams.

Barcode: 7290003648344

2

Product name: Slices of herring fillet with onion in oil, Dutch style, Provencal, commercial name/brand: Shamir Salads 2006 Ltd. - P. L. Fish, content: 565 grams.

Barcode: 7290003648856

Listeria monocytogenes bacteria may cause a disease in high-risk population, such as people with weakened immune system, elderly people or it may lead to abortions in pregnant women. The company apologizes to its clients and acts to prevent future faults of such sort. Shamir Salads Company 2006 Ltd., in coordination with the Ministry of health recalls the product from the market.

For inquiries and questions, contact our client service by dialing 03-9067744

Kind regards,
Shamir Salads